Loder named Garceau Professor

Randall Loder, MD, has been named the George J. Garceau Professor of Pediatric Orthopaedic Surgery pending approval by the IU trustees. Dr. Loder is a professor and vice chairman of orthopaedic surgery and director of the orthopaedic residency program.

The Garceau Professorship was established in 1999 by the James Whitcomb Riley Memorial Association and other donors to honor the memory of Dr. Garceau, who played a leading role in the development of the IU Department of Orthopaedic Surgery. He was the first chief of pediatric orthopaedic surgery from 1928-1933 and served as chairman of the department from 1948 until his retirement in 1966.

Dr. Loder has served on the IU faculty since 2003. He received his medical degree from Washington University School of Medicine and completed his residency in orthopaedics at the Medical College of Ohio and a fellowship at Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.

IUPUI to Join IUSM-Kenya Partnership

Building on the IU School of Medicine's 17-year-old collaboration with Moi University, IUPUI is starting a strategic partnership with the Kenyan university that is expected to lead to a broad range of strategic agreements in key locations around the world, including Mexico, India, China and Europe.

The IUPUI-Moi partnership agreement was signed by IUPUI Chancellor Charles Bantz, PhD, during a ceremony attended by Moi and IUPUI officials Nov. 8 in Eldoret, Kenya. Moi is one of the leading universities in East Africa.

The IUPUI agreement builds upon a partnership begun in 1989 between the IU School of Medicine and Moi that provides resident and faculty exchanges, helps train Kenyan medical students in their home country and abroad, offers American medical students and physicians an experience in international medicine, and provides medical care to the people of western Kenya. The School of Medicine-Moi program has developed the Academic Model for the Prevention and Treatment of HIV/AIDS (AMPATH), one of the most comprehensive HIV/AIDS treatment and prevention program in Africa.

Under IUPUI's strategic partnership, other schools on the campus of IUPUI will work with their counterparts at Moi University to develop or expand programs in such areas as social work, dentistry and nursing.

Schools of education, business, informatics, engineering and technology, physical education and tourism development, liberal arts, University College and Student Life and Diversity are exploring opportunities for curriculum development, institution building, student and faculty exchange, collaborative research projects, distance education, study abroad programming, and expanding the impact and outreach of the HIV/AIDS treatment and prevention program.

Clarian Health Leadership Ethics Lecture – Nov. 15

“Tell Me Again: Why do we want to make health care more like the airlines?” is the title of the seventh annual Clarian Health Leadership Ethics Lecture, sponsored by

The Charles Warren Fairbanks Center for Medical Ethics. The lecture, presented by Charles Bosk, PhD, professor of sociology and of medical ethics at the University of Pennsylvania, will be from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15, in Pettigrew Auditorium, Methodist Hospital.

A reception will follow Dr. Bosk’s lecture.

Dr. Bosk is a nationally recognized expert on medical error, a reputation which became established with the 1979 publication of Forgive and Remember: Managing Medical Failure. Dr. Bosk is author of more than 60 articles and author or editor of six books including his soon-to-be released book, What Would You Do? The Collision of Ethics and Ethnography.

Among many distinguished academic awards and honors, Dr. Bosk has recently received a three-year Robert Wood Johnson Health Investigator Award, “Restarting a Stalled Policy Revolution: Patient Safety, Systems Error, and Professional Responsibility.”

Kelley School of Business offers free life science series

The Indiana University Kelley School of Business invites all medical faculty to attend the third in its new life science conference series. The conferences scheduled throughout this academic year will shed light on how best to manage the interface between science and business. Attendance for all participants is free.

The successful delivery of value in health care involves complex collaboration among physicians, research scientists, engineers, nurses, business executives and policy makers. The goal of each conference is to examine an issue of concern and challenge, share relevant knowledge and perspective, and provide attendees a broader insight on business development within the life sciences.

Nov. 17	Commercialization of Life: Science Products	University Place Conference Center IUPUI
Feb. 2	Combination Products in the Life Science Industries	Cook Group Inc. Bloomington
May 18	Management of Research and Development	Winona Lake, Grace College Warsaw

Registration and program information can be found online at www.kelley.iu.edu/lifesc. Questions can be directed to Roxie Glaze at rglaze@indiana.edu or 812-855-9210.

FEED workshops for 2007

The Department of Medicine seeks to provide the highest quality learning environment for our medical students, residents and fellows. As a part of this commitment, the FEED series quarterly offers workshops on key topics in clinical teaching. These workshops are designed to provide an opportunity for the department faculty to improve their teaching skills in a collegial and fun environment.

Mark your calendar for the following 2007 FEED workshops:

- Feb. 28 - “Light the Fire: Don’t Fill the Bucket” on how to give a lecture
- April 11 - “Setting Limits with Colleagues” on accountability and patient safety
- Aug. 22 - “Scholarship of Education” on making teaching count
- Oct. 17 - “Lessons in Death and Dying” on a patient-centered approach to death and dying

All workshops will be from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Riley Outpatient Center rooms A and B. Faculty interested in attending should e-mail Roberta Brown at rbrown2@iupui.edu, or call 630-6906.

Medical student hosts needed by HOST

The HOST Program, sponsored by the IUSM Department of Alumni Relations, matches fourth-year IUSM students with IU medical alumni in an effort to provide housing for students during their residency interviews.

The HOST Program allows students to save money, but more importantly, it provides an opportunity for students to gain helpful insights into the local medical communities where they are interviewing.

For more information on the HOST Program, visit alumni.iupui.edu/medicine/host.htm, or contact Brad Titus at bltitus@iupui.edu, or 278-6603.

Rock for Riley, an OMSL event

Rock for Riley, sponsored by the Office of Medical Service-Learning at IUSM, is an annual concert event benefiting Riley Hospital for Children. In the past two years, Rock for Riley has raised nearly $250,000 for the hospital. Now in its third year, Rock for Riley is ready once again to show the IUSM and Indianapolis community how to rock for a good cause.

This year’s concert will feature My Morning Jacket, a band out of Louisville, at Clowes Memorial Hall on the Butler campus. The show will be on Saturday, Nov. 25 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available through TicketMaster outlets, the Clowes Memorial Hall Box Office, online at <http://www.ticketmaster.com/>, or can be charged by phone at 239-5151. Opening the show will be The Slip. All proceeds from ticket sales go to benefit Riley Hospital for Children.

Interested in becoming involved in the organization or wanting to make a donation? For more information or to help support Rock for Riley, please visit <http://www.rockforriley.org/> or email the project co-chairs, Brian Meek (<mailto:bdmeek@iupui.edu>) or Whitney Pratt (<mailto:wpratt@iupui.edu>).

The OMSL, directed by Patricia Keener, MD, and Patricia Treadwell, MD, promotes a lifelong commitment to community service through innovative service-learning experiences. Visit www.iu.edu/~omsl for more information.

Helping Habitat is OMSL

Habitat for Humanity is an international housing ministry which has built more than 200,000 houses around the world since its founding in 1976. Helping Habitat, a program sponsored by the Office of Medical Service-Learning, includes medical student volunteers who participate in local and national Habitat for Humanity home-building projects. In March 2007, IUSM students will participate in a Habitat project during a spring-break trip to Rowley, N.C.

On Sept 2, a group of seven medical students volunteered to move more than 30 trusses, paint doors, and clean and organize the Habitat Home Store in Indianapolis. According to Rachel Manley, MS 2, one of the HH project co-chairs, the students learned valuable team-building skills since they had to work together to move the heavy trusses.

The proceeds from the Habitat for Humanity Home Store are used to build Habitat homes. Manley stated that “it helps me realize why I am doing what I am doing in medical school and helps me when I go back to studying to stay motivated. I want people to know that they too can help the Indy Habitat for Humanity by volunteering their time at the Indy Habitat for Humanity Home Store.” Manley can be contacted at rdmanley@iupui.edu.

The OMSL, directed by Patricia Keener, MD, and Patricia Treadwell, MD, promotes a lifelong commitment to community service through innovative service-learning experiences. Learn more at www.iu.edu/~omsl.

Honors

Victoria Champion, DNS, RN, program director for the Mary Margaret Walther Program and a member of the IU Cancer Center team, was presented with the American Cancer Society St. George National Award in recognition of outstanding contributions to the control of cancer. Dr. Champion has been a volunteer leader of the ACS for 16 years and was recognized for her distinguished and exemplary leadership, years of service and her commitment to the ACS.

Friends of the World Food Program will honor Robert Einterz, MD, professor of medicine and associate dean for international affairs at IUSM, Nov. 15 when the WFP hosts its annual award ceremony and reception honoring leaders in the fight against hunger. The event brings together members of Congress, other federal officials, diplomats, the corporate community, advocacy groups, and others interested in efforts to fight hunger. Dr. Einterz is being recognized for his role in the development of AMPATH (Academic Model for the Prevention and Transmission of HIV/AIDS), which is a system of HIV/AIDS control that is accessible to several million persons in western Kenya. The program is an outgrowth of the long-standing collaboration between IU and Moi University.

Walther Cancer Institute presented in research prizes and scholarships to honor the outstanding accomplishments and promise of talented scientists and clinicians at its 21st annual dinner Nov. 10.

IUSM affiliated recipients include Sung Michael Ha, a fourth year student in the MD/PhD program at IUSM is the recipient of the $6,000 Dr. J. William Wright Sr. Scholarship. Waleed Khalaf, a fourth-year medical school and member of the MD/PhD program at IUSM was awarded a $3,250 Marilyn Hester Scholarship. Nathan Novotny, a general surgical resident at IUSM, was awarded a $3,250 Marilyn Hester Scholarship.

Johnny He, PhD, associate professor of microbiology and immunology, has been appointed to the National Institutes of Health NeuroAIDS Study Section.

Thomas Inui, MD, has been named the 2006 recipient of the George Engel Award, presented Oct. 14 by the American Academy on Communication in Healthcare for his outstanding research contributing to the theory, practice and teaching of effective health care communication. Dr. Inui is CEO of the Regenstrief Institute and the Sam Regenstrief Professor of Health Services Research; professor of medicine and associate dean for health care research at IUSM. Previous winners of this award included Richard Frankel, PhD, Regenstrief research scientist and professor of medicine.

This week on Sound Medicine

Tune in at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 12, to Sound Medicine, the weekly radio program co-produced by IUSM and WFYI Public Radio (90.1 FM) in Indianapolis. The program is hosted by Barb Lewis. Co-hosts of this week's program are David Crabb, MD, and Stephen Bogdewic, PhD.

This week contributing reporter Shia Levitt will examine the strengths and weaknesses of the Veterans Administration's medical care system, which has undergone leadership changes and series of reforms in the past 10 years.

Doctors Without Borders co-founder Patrick Aeberhard, MD, will discuss the organization and his personal experiences practicing medicine in war-torn countries such as Rwanda.

Also schedule is Siobhan McEvory-Levy, PhD, associate professor of political science at Butler University, who will discuss her recent trip to Israel and Palestine and the impact of war and conflict on children in those counties.

Physicians face many challenges in the war zone. Michael Murphy, MD, IUSM assistant professor of surgery, will relate his experience operating at the Combat Support Hospital in Baghdad for four months, performing general and vascular surgeries on war wounded Americans and Iraqis.

Archived editions of Sound Medicine, as well as other helpful health information, can be found at www.soundmedicine.iu.edu/.

Scope submission guidelines

Scope wants your news items.

The deadline for submission is 8:30 a.m. on Thursdays. Scope is published electronically and sent to faculty, staff, students, and residents.

There are three easy ways to submit story ideas or information to Scope:

- e-mail the information to mhardin@iupui.edu
- mail the information to Mary Hardin, Z-7, Ste. 306, IUPUI
- fax your information to (317) 278-8722

Contributions submitted by e-mail should be forwarded in 12 point, plain text format.

In the interest of accuracy, please do NOT use:

- acronyms
- abbreviations
- campus building codes (use full, proper name of building and include the room number)
- Dr. as a preface before names (designate MD or PhD)

To keep the electronic version of Scope as streamlined as possible, only seminars and lectures of general or multidisciplinary interest will be included.
